This is another new boogeyman beater club booklet, this one may not be that big but I wouldn't be the supreme boogeyman if it won't teach you anything, because this one also has a moral like all my books have a moral! Only this is 1 story instead of several! And while most people just go about their daily lives undisturbed, adventurers still exist! Adventurers whom we have now labeled and given a name architect. But from the days of a tough and fearless man named Riks, nothing more, nothing less, just Riks when adventurers were still real adventurers!

They had to fight and not for a while, and not in a normal way but Riks had to fight against skeletons and things that rose from the dead like for example the cleaner of an Egyptian pyramid of the god of the dead Osiris!

And let this be a book about skeletons and skulls and relics and I now explain what a relic actually is. a relic is literally a magical thing and that's what this story is about and of course fights and of course a good dose of humor, because that makes an adventurer's story really complete!

I welcome you to:

Because not everything is as it seems, and sometimes very occasionally the truth only comes out after 1001 deaths!

In the middle of the night and I mean really in the middle of a sweltering sweat pouring Greek night there is a knock on the door and not softly, it looks like the door is being rammed in two!

Riks has just fallen asleep and thinks to himself: Do I have to open the glowing light bulb door? He opens the door and says come back tomorrow!

But the three men have no intention of leaving and storm into his apartment, they throw him on a chair and tie him up and a lady comes in, a lady who looks so amazingly beautiful that even the biggest boogeyman will melt. would..

A dangerous lady and one of his worst nightmares but Rihs is often tied up so he can escape, only he has to wait for the right moment!

Then the lady sends the men out and says she has a proposition for him:

If he brings her the relic of Osiris that can bring the dead back to life, she will pay him not only in money, but his name will be known throughout the world. Everyone would show respect for him and everyone would know that he is the man who can literally bring the dead back to life!

The offer is too good to be true and then it usually is. He has learned that in his career full of ups and downs where Osiris himself would have thought, check it out!

But his stubbornness and determination, his perseverance and empathetic ability to not just think about the money has saved him so many times!

Only Osiris has always interested him as the god who could literally bring the dead back to life, so actually without thinking he says yes because he himself has also lost people and he himself wants to test this relic first, but the lady does not need to know that!

How does he get out of here now?

Sleep tight and see you tomorrow!

Yesterday we found out that the woman Chantayno wanted something from our adventurer Riks, the relic of Osiris the god of the dead who could bring the dead back to life! And Riks accepted her offer of money and wealth, but also respect and name recognition, but is it all as beautiful as it seems? All that money and all that respect and his name being mentioned by thousands or millions of people? Is it really that important to be rich and famous? But this job is more than just a relic because this job is about Osiris and he has always had a soft spot for Osiris! Today we continue and hopefully it will all go well!

We pick up where we left off and she gives him a map to Egypt and a map of where the pyramid should be located, nobody has seen it yet or even knows that thing exists so that's a challenge that appeals to him!

An untraceable pyramid somewhere in Egypt and within a radius of 20 km!

Somewhere where no one has ever been or just didn't search hard enough.... Anyway he accepts the offer purely out of interest and the lady and three men leave the building, he hears the engine of their car start and he goes back to bed. But sleeping is difficult in that sweltering heat where even the desert is still cool!

The woman did not introduce herself but every adventurer knows her name, she is known worldwide as Chantayno the sweet but oh so violent principal of well paid and interesting assignments, but everyone's nightmare if you defy her adventurer or everything in between! And a nightmare is what he already has every day, every night, 1 sweltering night at a time! It soon becomes clear to him that he cannot sleep tonight and leaves the building to the airport because he has a flight to Egypt to catch...

The flight went quickly and the moment he lands she is already there Chantayno and she says step in, I'll take you there.. The journey to the place where the pyramid is supposed to be takes a long time and not a word is said in the car, but they understand each other like no other!

We found out yesterday that Riks has left for Egypt to find the pyramid of Osiris!
But does he like that pyramid or is everything too good to be true?

Chantayno is one that is known throughout the adventurer's world but also one that is not to be messed with and if she doesn't like something, then it really does not suit her!
This is the life of an adventurer and this is the life of Riks right now!

An all-important moment, but can he trust her or were her words greater than her actions?

You'll find out today as we continue the story.
Have fun!

We continue they have never worked together but the feeling there is the feeling of friendship and collegiality but as soon as the car stops he is kicked out of the car and the car drives away!

He doesn't carry any gear or even a shovel and everything is sand, all he sees is sand!
Nothing but a barren expanse of sand and the sun right on top of his head, there are no mountains or rocks or even hills or dunes, nothing but sand! Sand by sand after sand behind the top and bottom and it even now creeps into his buttocks where it is not allowed to crawl...

The sun is sweltering hot and it shines extra bright at least that's how it seems today, as if he has literally ended up in hell that's how hot

he has it, there is not a breath of wind and he is already starting to get a dry throat...

He thinks to himself and screams RIKS RIKS RIKS WHERE DID YOU GO TO NOW? AND HOW DO YOU GET OUT OF THIS NOW?

Yes that car that was all nice and nice it had air conditioning hey that thing had air conditioning but here.....

He gets angrier and angrier what I do without equipment without water without stupid shovel?

Yes re you are here in the desert without anything he kicks wildly in the sand but his anger does not calm down and his mouth becomes drier and drier, until at some point when the evening begins to fall he starts seeing double and someone actually comes walking. Maybe he has water and a shovel with him..

But he doesn't like what he sees. The man is bone skinny and I mean that seriously the man is bone and bone lean.

There is literally no piece of muscle tissue, flesh or skin on the body , something not often seen in a walking skeleton!

The moment the skeleton focuses on Riks, he pulls out a sword and runs towards him screaming!

Riks knows no attitude, no equipment, no water and still no shovel! What does he have to do for that shovel? That's one thing that comes in handy at times like this, but he doesn't have it, and sees the skeleton getting closer and closer, but he won't give up! And the moment the skeleton is standing right in front of him, he decides to throw sand into his eye sockets...

He sees the thing beating wildly around him with the sword hitting nothing but air, and he throws more and more sand into his eye sockets.

Does he win the battle of the skeleton without having anything?
You'll find out tomorrow in the sequel of:

The Adventure to the Unknown
Club!

Sleep tight and see you tomorrow!

Yesterday we found out that Chantayno abandoned him and dropped him in the middle of the desert where he had to fight a skeleton without any equipment or even a shovel! A skeleton with a sword and according to Rihs the pyramid must be close where the relic can be found!

For without Osiris magic the skeleton could not have risen and without Osiris magic the skeleton could not have picked up a sword and without Osiris magic the skeleton could not have found it!

Ergo the pyramid of Osiris must be closer than he originally thought!

But how does he get there? How does he find the pyramid without a compass or even a shovel?

You might find out today as we continue the story!

After all the sand in his eyes, the skeleton goes to the ground and drops his sword, which Riks picks up and cuts right into his spine the skeleton splits in two and as he moves forward with only his chest and arms his legs the other way!

A beautiful spectacle of a blind skeleton split in two, Riks waves and walks on in search of the pyramid that must be here somewhere! Because this skeleton has been brought to life with the relic of Osiris, then there is no other option, but where did the skeleton come from, which direction was that exactly?

The footprints in the sand lead him from side to side and from side to side until he hits his toe on a pointed stone sticking out of the sand!

He jumps up in the air but not from the pain though it hurts he feels his toe throb and with his hands he digs unsteadily from the pain the stone out the stone but there is no end to the stone is huge and he keeps digging the sweat is running him finished but he has no intention of stopping this must be the pyramid of Osiris! It just has to be he was just buried under the sands of the Egyptian desert.

The first opening is already visible but as he puts his hand inside he almost immediately feels something crawling:

Snakes!

He quickly withdraws his hand but when he has freed his hand an army of snakes comes out of the pyramid....

He is like the glowing light bulb for snakes so he dances and dances and dances to get rid of the snakes. Yes, an adventurer who is afraid of snakes is afraid of everything. Also mom and dad are afraid of something and even me the supreme boogeyman is afraid of something! Fear is human but fear is a bad counselor except when it comes to snakes! He feels the jitters all over his body and it only gets worse and worse when 7 snakes crawl his way he runs away and cries like a baby he is so scared...

But he realizes that this might be the only opening so he stops running and crying because this may just be his only chance of getting in!

Does he win the battle of his own worst fear, and defy his fear like a man or.....
You will find out tomorrow in the sequel of:

The Adventure to the Unknown
Club!

Sleep tight and see you tomorrow!

We found out yesterday that even the greatest adventurer is afraid of something and even though it's a real man's job, an adventurer feels fear just like you and me!

Everyone feels fear but it's up to you how you deal with it, because sooner or later we all have to face your greatest fear. It's a spider or a snake, it's your brother or sister or the neighbor across the street who always looks so angry!

But the chief bogeyman himself does not come out of this battle unscathed, because the chief bogeyman himself is also afraid and very afraid even of the boogeyman-boogeyman monsters that have turned our oh so beautiful paradise into a wasteland, those are real fears you all greatest of all but a man is not a man until he defies them as an adventurer but if even the adventurer is afraid

Well let's move on soon and I hope you learn from this too because this is a true story that happened in a childish simple but mature enough story!

Because let's face it Osiris is a god that is not to be messed with especially because he has skeletons and zombies and other undead at his disposal, ready to be undead as only the undead can!

For even the serpents are undead coming at him creeping skeletons; they are able to attack him at any moment as only undead serpents can...

How?

By eating the living and feeding on the dead! These snakes regain their flesh and scales when they have tasted human flesh!

He sees 1 snake with a kind of jewelry, a crown on its head, the king they are all listening to and that king crawls in front while the others all follow!

Riks realizes that if he can take that crown the snakes will go back into the pyramid one by one or they will get angry. It's a risk but it's worth the risk!

So he walks up to the king of snakes and the king immediately attacks him but Riks grabs him by the jaws and starts and shakes the crown from his head, but it turns out to be tighter than he originally thought!

He has to pull the crown off the head with his hands, but how?

How is he going to do that? You will find out tomorrow on a sleepy night and see you tomorrow!

He has defied his greatest fear but will he enter the pyramid and how?
You'll find out tomorrow in the sequel of:

The Adventure to the Unknown
Club!

Sleep tight and see you tomorrow!

We found out yesterday that Riks defied his greatest fear by fighting the kingsnake, but that was not as easy as expected because do you remember what happened?

The crown was too tight, but that must also mean that the crown can come loose, but how? Do you have an idea because for example he still has no shovel, and still no equipment and there is nothing but sand to be found in the Egyptian desert where the undead have free rein because of the relic of Osiris and is that relic so safe to carry? to take to the agreed place?

Is the end of the world worth all that money and fame?

For if the dead have free rein, what is left of the world? For the dead don't know the difference between good and evil and perhaps it is better to leave the relic alone or even destroy it!

Let's get on with the story don't you think?

The point from yesterday was that the crown was too tight to shake free from the undead snake, remember?

And now Riks is trying with all his strength to pull the crown off with one hand while holding the snake by its sides with the other hand and with all his strength and even more than that he pulls the crown off, after which all snakes turn to dust change and disappear in the sand but the crown grows The crown collapses all the sand in which the pyramid is buried Rick floats down he feels supreme as he puts on the crown.

This must be the relic he was looking for, but he won't give up, the money doesn't interest him, and neither does the fame right now, he's Osiris and can bring the dead back to life!

All his mind tells him to let the dead rest but his heart says what else his heart tells him he misses her! And he waves his arm in the air after which a gigantic staff with all kinds of gems and you name it comes flying into his hands.

He tries to guard against his love but the love is too strong and he waves the staff hoping to get her back but what he sees deceives him he pulls Chantayno to him like a magnet and she shakes him the hand and says:

Now rule the world with all the money and all the power, respect and name recognition is ours and ours alone, she hugs him and says thank you Osiris. Thanks to you this world is a better place, thank you we will never die and we will stay together forever!

A sense of pure power comes over Rik's power and love, yet it feels wrong!

His greatest desire is his greatest dream closer to death, but does Chantayno have other intentions than Riks?

You'll find out tomorrow in the sequel of:

The Adventure to the Unknown
Club!

Sleep tight and see you tomorrow!

We found out yesterday that Riks found the relic without searching and that his greatest dream to understand Osiris can now become reality but at what cost?

And is all that money and infinite life really as beautiful as it seems? Because an infinite life can only exist in infinite love, but Chantayno comes across as dark and she plans something else for the world!

So much anger, so much hate that can only mean one thing and that is the end of the world where the undead walk among the living...

But that was never Rik's plan, all he wanted was to understand Osiris and unfortunately for him he understands Osiris now as never before!

For Osiris was never bad, he was made bad just like everyone else!
Everyone god or human demon or angel is born innocent but life shapes us!

We continue in the very last bit of the story of this small but oh so important book! Filled with all kinds of adult things but which even the youngest child can understand because if you live for money and fame you get that but also if you live for love and security you will get it sooner or later and Riks just doesn't have both on the way he would have liked it!

Because he wants to get rid of that crown but just like the snake the crown is stuck and even with all his strength he can't get it off, but with every movement the crown makes Chantayno's eyes change they take the shape of a cat's eye at every move the crown makes Chantayno is not Chantayno but who is he has delved into Egyptian mythology and it can only be 1! There is only 1 woman in this world who is known for her cats and that is.

Just Cleopatra the most beautiful woman in all Egypt and the only woman who has so much hatred and anger in her to make the world burst and unleash demons but Riks is not stupid and calls her name:

Cleopatra, Cleopatra, Cleopatra and with every Cleopatra the crown loosens and loosens until it is so loose that he can take it off and breaks in half in the middle of the pyramid in an ultimate showdown causing Cleopatra also to go to dust and the pyramid to collapse, he has to run for his life but every room is unique until he runs through the whole pyramid and ends up in a room filled with torches the only room left standing there is a huge table and there are men in jackal masks sitting at the table...

They say welcome riks from now on you are known as Rikshayno the knocker of Cleopatra the greatest peasant in all Egypt!
We welcome you to the bogeyman beater club and we hope you can teach us a lot because you are not only attached to us but we are also to you, friendship to infinity and look here come sit down!

Rikshayno sits down and when the woman's mask comes off he sees his mother, the one he wanted to bring back!

This is all worth it and this club will forever be a part of him and he did it all himself with no equipment or shovel!

All this from the beginning to the end has led to this coming together and being together and being able to stay together forever for eternity and beyond!

The End

The moral of this story

Never has he been so grateful for the opportunity Chantayno gave him and money power and everything that comes with it is unimportant when it comes to motherly love and money and power is unimportant when it comes to boldness determination perseverance love and the stubborn carry on because how you are and i mean how you really are you can't beat that weight in gold because how you really are and the harder you work and sweat for your money that's what makes your character and none demon is born guilty but life has its way of turning the most innocent baby into the supreme boogeyman but even he can be changed with love in his heart and that's the moral of this story!
